

From the Men's Tournament Director

Keith Burke

We're off to another fast season. I want to welcome the new teams this year and thank those who returned for another go at it. As you all know we are constantly trying to keep the level of competition high. So if you think you might have registered at level that really isn't giving you much competition, try playing up to test the waters.

Also, we need to talk about playing at the different sites. Think of them as your mother's house. Pick up after yourself and don't make a mess or we risk losing playing venues.

For those of you who haven't noticed, this year's Regionals are going to be held on one day for all divisions. We are taking advantage of space at the convention center, running the juniors' Bid tournaments (excepting 13s) the same weekend.

In closing, as always we need more tournament hosts, so if you have a site that can offer a tournament drop me an e-mail and we can set something up. It will be financially good for your team and add events for the region.

Good luck in the season, and I hope to see your team playing a lot this year.

We are constantly trying to keep the level of competition high
