

From the Men's Tournament Director

Keith Burke

The time is near. Another season of OVR volleyball is here. I want to let anyone who is interested know that there are plenty of open dates to host a tournament. All you need to do is drop me an e-mail and we will get you on the schedule. Like I have said before, hosting a tournament makes that long drive home just a short walk to your teams favorite gathering place. And the money you can make will go a long way in offsetting the season's expenses.

I also want to take a moment to let all men's team reps know that this season you must use your OVR-assigned team registration numbers when you enter a tournament. This will keep the team name mixups to a minimum. All tournament reps will need this number to report the results from their events. If you forget your registration number, it's always available at www.ovr.org/mw/teams.php.

Finally, for those of you who haven't noticed it. The OVR is sponsoring a new coed division at the regionals this year. We will also be sanctioning tournaments for coed this year. Teams need to be made up of registered OVR members, and the competition rules are clearly printed in the current rule book. So here is another opportunity to expand your volleyball. More info on the coed team registration will be placed on the website in the very near future.

See you at a tournament very soon.
