

OVR YouTube Channel

Email: December 21, 2020

Referees,

I'm venturing into some new territory -- creating an OVR YouTube Channel! I plan to upload some training videos from time to time, so I want to share those with you. They're short clips - 2 or 3 minutes long - and they highlight particular aspects of officiating and rules. Right now, I have four videos there, with voice-over to point out the teachable moments: R1, R2, ball handling and back-row plays (setters). These were used during our new referee virtual clinics, and many newbies asked if these could be posted somewhere. So, I came up with this idea.

At this time, the videos are not public -- which means you can't search YouTube for them. Instead, you need to use the direct links below to see each one. I'll have the links posted on our website as well, as time permits.

If you have a couple minutes, take a look and feel free to offer feedback or requests for video topics. And if you have some experience with the YouTube platform and want to help out, drop me a note. You can also leave comments below each video.

First Referee Training: <https://youtu.be/XX17ETZwb9Q>
Second Referee Training: <https://youtu.be/HksKDL6NVnM>
Ball Handling: https://youtu.be/qeF38y8Vr_s
Back-row Plays: <https://youtu.be/z4dMtxFpcYA>

(Note: These videos are also available on the Training Videos page under Professional Development in the OFFICIALS drop-down menu.)

Enjoy!

Brian Hemelgarn (hemelgarn@ovr.org)
OVR Referees' Chair